GENERAL INFORMATION

- WHO: THE GRAND 1894 OPERA HOUSE
- WHAT: THE GRAND KIDS FESTIVAL
A Celebration of Folk Arts & Families
- WHY: To provide participatory access to the fine arts for all children through an extension of The Grand's educational outreach and children's programming;
- To raise an appreciation and awareness of the fine arts for children;
- To demonstrate the talent and ability of children in the greater Galveston/Houston area; and
- To create a visible, broad-based event which adheres to The Grand's mission.
- WHEN: Saturday, April 10, 2010 10:00 am - 5:00 pm
- WHERE: Postoffice Street, between 20th and 23rd Streets with North/South closings at 21st and 22nd.
- TICKETS: At the gate: $3.00 adults; $2.00 children; children under 5 free.
Pre-sale at The Grand's Box Office: tickets half-price.

The Grand Kids Festival is designed to create an arena for participation by those attending. Virtually all booth and stage activities will be dedicated to "hands-on" projects, such as making musical instruments; creating visual art in a variety of media; learning and acting out folk dances or puppetry. Food and beverage booths, located in a Food Fair area, will be geared toward "fun" but good food for families.

Entertainment areas will include children performing as well as professional artists who specialize in performing for children and families. Performances will include vocal, instrumental and dance groups representing both a diversity of ages and cultures. A special centerpiece for the festival will be the culmination of a week-long residency of the Missoula Children's Theatre at The Grand, working with local children to produce a children's musical adaptation of "Rumpelstiltskin" on Saturday during the festival on the Grand's stage.
