GALVESTON'S GRAND 1894 OPERA HOUSE TO PRESENT DEFENDING THE CAVEMAN, OCTOBER 22-23

Rob Becker's Defending the Caveman goes straight to the funny bone for three performances at The Grand 1894 Opera House on Friday, October 22 at 8 p.m. and Saturday, October 23 at 3 p.m. and 8 p.m. Sponsored in part by Atlantis Plastics Company, Defending the Caveman holds the record as the longest running solo play in Broadway history. "Outrageously funny! Caveman explores all of the things that make men and women fight, laugh, and love," says The Dallas Morning News.

Defending the Caveman has won the hearts of millions in more than 30 countries and has been translated into 15 languages. Written by Rob Becker and recommended for adult audiences, this is a hilariously insightful show about the ongoing misunderstandings between men and women that have both sexes roaring with laughter and recognition. With hysterical looks into contemporary feminism, masculine sensitivity and the erogenous zone, Defending the Caveman will have you laughing out loud as it mines the common themes in relationships without taking sides.

Affectionate nudging between audience members occurs during the performance as they recognize themselves in the stories being told on stage. The show has won the hearts of couples all across America, and it's sure to win yours. The Boston Globe says, "Defending the Caveman is so perceptive, so witty, so sweetly understanding, you can't help feeling exhilarated!" Skip the therapy session and bring your spouse to The Grand!
